Notes:

Data is included for cycles that transferred at least one embryo to the surrogate patient. Cycles involving transfer of fresh or frozen embryos are included.

Data is up to and including 30/06/2011, the most recently verified period so data for 2011 is for the half-year only (which explains the reduced numbers of surrogate centres and cycles here).

We are also carrying out a second piece of verification work specifically on donor data (including donation to a surrogate patient) in advance of publishing a statistical report on donation and the information we have provided here may therefore be subject to change.
