Please note that the HFEA conducts a regular verification process on sections of its database in which it works with the sector to verify the information we hold. As this process has not yet been conducted for Live birth outcomes for 2013 and 2014 this information has not been included.

You also requested the number of women who have had a successful live birth using their own frozen eggs when they were aged 35 or more. I can confirm that 18 women meet the criteria you set out above.
